MANUFACTURER OF STATIONERY

OFFSET

Offset paper is recommended when a high quality end product is desired.

This type of roll is suitable for printing devices such as payment terminals, cash registers and other electronic printing devices. Offset paper is the most absorbent printing substrate.

The advantages of offset printing are the high quality of the printed images (fine details) and the possibility to use special colours.

The offset paper rolls in our portfolio are suitable for all matrix printers on the market (Bixolon, Star, Datecs, Epson, etc.).

The quality of the paper is guaranteed for a minimum period of 5 years by the manufacturer, if the product is stored in optimal conditions.

OFFSET PAPER CHARACTERISTICS

Our offset paper is the classic in office communication. Due to its uncoated surface, offset paper absorbs colours very strongly. As a result, the colours appear less intense than with picture printing paper, for example.

Offset paper is particularly suitable for plain designs that contain few images.

OFFSET PAPER MATERIAL DESCRIPTION

The glued surface gives offset paper a rough structure. This makes the paper ideal for printing with laser or inkjet printers, writing with ballpoint pens, fountain pens and the like or stamping.

The higher the paper weight of the offset paper per square metre, the more stable it is.

UNCOATED AND COATED OFFSET PAPER

UNCOATED PAPERS

These variants do not require any synthetic treatment. They have a naturally matt, closed surface structure and a particularly pleasant feel.

COATED PAPERS

Their surface is refined with a chalk coating, which can be matt or glossy.

The surface thus appears closed, smoother and more stable. These properties ensure a higher level of detail and quality in printing.

GLOSSY COATED PAPERS

Subsequent calendering gives the surface more gloss and smoothness.

Brilliant colour results and sharp contrasts are convincing when printing.
